Togo Army Junta Seeks New Leader

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

LAGOS, Nigeria, (AP) — The army which seized Togo Sunday seemed Monday night to be considering three men in quest for a leader to fill the shoes of the assassinated president, Sylvanus Olympio. All are supposedly in Lome, the capital.

Sporadic breaks in communications impeded news from Lome, on the Gulf of Guinea 140 miles west of Lagos.

But Radio Lome announced Togo would respect its foreign treaties. These treaties include a technical and economic cooperation pact with the United States signed Dec. 28, 1960. Public roads were high on the list of U.S. aid projects.

Word received here was that the military revolutionary committee which engineered the coup appeared disinterested in ruling the economically troubled West African nation and hoped to obtain a new government chief.

Olympio, 60, was shot down near the U.S. Embassy's unlocked gate before dawn Sunday as he apparently sought refuge within the embassy.

Disarmament Talks Reopened By U.S.-USSR

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union opened a new round of high-level disarmament talks Monday aimed chiefly at exploring possibilities of progress on a nuclear test ban.

William C. Foster, the new top U.S. disarmament expert, met with Semyon K. Tsarapkin, veteran Soviet arms negotiator, at the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

The first session lasted 2½ hours. There was no comment from the participants. They will meet again Tuesday afternoon at the U.S. mission to the United Nations.

There have been hints from the Soviet side recently that they want to reach agreement on a test ban, paving the way for advance on other long-deadlocked disarmament issues.

U.S. sources said Foster sought to weigh prospects for progress at the 17-nation disarmament negotiations scheduled to resume in Geneva Feb. 12.

Foster reportedly brought no new proposals from the U.S. side, but was ready to listen to anything new Tsarapkin and Nikolai T. Fedorenko, new Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, might have to offer.

In his first meeting with U.N. correspondents, Fedorenko said the Soviet Union ranks disarmament as the No. 1 international issue.

Publisher Killed In Plane Crash

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (UPI) — A small plane spun out of control and crashed into a wooded area near here Monday killing two men, including an executive of Dow Jones and Co., Inc.

The victims were identified as Robert M. Feemster, 52, of New York, chairman of the executive board of Dow Jones, publishers of the Wall Street Journal and other business publications, and Forest Robert Leapley, 43, of Daytona Beach, Fla.

To Be Tried

PARIS (UPI) — The 19 men charged with trying to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle last Aug. 22 will be tried by France's new state security court, informed sources said Monday.

Khrushchev Greeted By East Berliners

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev rode into East Berlin in a snowstorm Monday night, assured the Communist world that capitalism's time is running out and said he will be on hand when the Western system is buried.

Arriving at an East German party congress which offers him an opportunity to discuss with world Red leaders the deep divisions in the international Communist movement, Khrushchev displayed top oratorical form. The congress opens Tuesday morning in drab East Berlin's Werner Seelenbinder Hall, a barnlike sports palace. Khrushchev's major speech on Communist policy is expected Wednesday.

Khrushchev, bareheaded in East Berlin's Ostbahnhof (East Station) as he arrived by train from a visit in Poland, hailed the concrete and barbed wire Communist wall dividing Berlin as a great achievement of the East German Red regime, and delivered a strong endorsement of East German party boss Walter Ulbricht, after kissing him twice.

The endorsement provided an indication of one of the reasons why Khrushchev is on hand for this congress, viewed in the West as one of the most important world Communist meetings in recent times.

Ulbricht has been reported in deep economic trouble and in need of strong support to beef up the morale of his party functionaries, who must deal with a sullen East German public.

Ulbricht fortunes apparently were far from the whole reason for Khrushchev's long trip from Moscow for the East Germans' 6th party congress. Leaders of the nearly 90 Communist parties around the world are in East Berlin and they have much to talk about.

No Chinese Present

Khrushchev came in aboard a special train covered with snow and ice from Poland, where he had conferred with Polish chief Wladyslaw Gomulka on Red problems.

Among these is the overriding issue of what to do about the deep split and confusion in Communist ranks over Red China's charges that Khrushchev is soft on capitalism and is tossing away revolutionary opportunities around the world because he fears a U.S. paper tiger.

There were no Chinese in sight in the welcoming delegations, although a second string Red Chinese delegation is on hand for the congress.

Khrushchev, in his usual ebullient form, scornfully berated the West as he told the shivering East German audience that the future belonged to them and all Communists.

There was no fire and airport officials immediately began helping the 47 passengers and seven crewmen from the plane.

Airline officials praised the pilot, Capt. R. O. Sandburg of Miami, for a "magnificent job" in handling the craft.

Williams agreed with Byrd that a tax cut without corresponding spending reductions would be "definitely inflationary." Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., challenged the statement that the "deadly threat" had been removed in Cuba. Goldwater said there still are Russian soldiers, tanks and other "offensive" weapons in Cuba to attack Guantanamo or "repel an invasion by the United States."

Reaction to the President's report on international affairs generally was favorable, although Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., challenged the statement that the "deadly threat" had been removed in Cuba. Goldwater said there still are Russian soldiers, tanks and other "offensive" weapons in Cuba to attack Guantanamo or "repel an invasion by the United States."

Informants said the shortage was discovered after U.N. representatives took over the bank when Tshombe's forces were driven from Elisabethville.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga issued his own currency in 1960, using several hundred million of the francs as backing. He has not yet been asked about the disappearance of the currency.

Khrushchev Greeted By East Berliners

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev rode into East Berlin in a snowstorm Monday night, assured the Communist world that capitalism's time is running out and said he will be on hand when the Western system is buried.

Arriving at an East German party congress which offers him an opportunity to discuss with world Red leaders the deep divisions in the international Communist movement, Khrushchev displayed top oratorical form. The congress opens Tuesday morning in drab East Berlin's Werner Seelenbinder Hall, a barnlike sports palace. Khrushchev's major speech on Communist policy is expected Wednesday.

Kisses Ulbricht

Khrushchev, bareheaded in East Berlin's Ostbahnhof (East Station) as he arrived by train from a visit in Poland, hailed the concrete and barbed wire Communist wall dividing Berlin as a great achievement of the East German Red regime, and delivered a strong endorsement of East Germany's party boss Walter Ulbricht, after kissing him twice.

Russell, chief strategist for the Southern bloc, cited a Senate rule which states: "Whenever a bill or joint resolution shall be offered, its introduction shall, if objected to, be postponed for one day."

Johnson Rules

Russell, chief strategist for the Southern bloc, cited a Senate rule which states: "Whenever a bill or joint resolution shall be offered, its introduction shall, if objected to, be postponed for one day."

Johnson held this rule did not apply since Anderson's proposal was not a bill or joint resolution but said another rule, stating that all resolutions shall lie over for one day unless unanimous consent is obtained, did apply.

Russell said he had intended to invoke the second rule Tuesday to win further delay.

Russell in effect opened the debate, however, with a short speech assailing those who, he contended, seek to mislead the public by stating that only civil rights issues are involved in the rules fight.

He declared "This is the technique of Hitler and the Big Lie."

Actually, he argued, the Senate has voted widely on civil rights measures in the last five years and two bills on the subject were passed—in 1957 and 1960.

"What is at stake here is the power and prerogatives of the Senators of the United States," Russell said.

Team Organized

The small states, he said, are easily overwhelmed in national political conventions and in the House of Representatives. Only in the Senate, he said, do they have equal rights.

Southern Senators, led by Russell, have declared they will fight any effort to bring the proposed rules changes to a vote without first sending them to the Rules Committee for consideration.

Eighteen Senators have organized into three teams to take turns holding the floor and are prepared to talk for weeks to stall a vote.

Humphrey insisted that the Senate has a right at the start of any new Congress to amend the rules by majority vote.

Contingent On Cuts

Baker added, however, that enactment of tax cuts should be contingent upon spending cuts.

Curtis said he thought the President was "talking sense."

"I am very pleased that Kennedy has recognized that tax cuts should be put into context with reforms in expenditures," he said.

Curtis said the rate reductions proposed by the President for individuals and corporations were within "bounds of reason" and added:

"I now think chances are good that Congress will cut taxes this year, provided that the President is not just paying lip service to reforms in expenditures."

Byrd said he favored tax reductions if cuts of the same size were made in government spending. But he said that "to reduce taxes and raise expenditures again could result in disastrous deficits," perhaps running as high as $15 billion next year.

Agrees With Byrd

Williams agreed with Byrd that a tax cut without corresponding spending reductions would be "definitely inflationary." Sen. Anderson said he did not like "huge deficits year after year, nor do I like to borrow money to reduce taxes."

Reaction to the President's report on international affairs generally was favorable, although Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., challenged the statement that the "deadly threat" had been removed in Cuba. Goldwater said there still are Russian soldiers, tanks and other "offensive" weapons in Cuba to attack Guantanamo or to repel an invasion by the United States.

Milk Dispute Is Settled In Favor Of Producers

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A dispute between the State Milk Commission and a group of Virginia and Maryland milk producers has been settled out of court, apparently in favor of the farmers.

A notice of the settlement was filed in Richmond U.S. District Court, where the producers had asked for an injunction.

Involved were sales by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association to Safeway Stores Inc., a supermarket chain.

The association said the commission was trying to restrict the sales to certain dairy farmers in the Fredericksburg area, farmers selected "arbitrarily" by the commission.

The association contended such action was placing illegal restrictions on interstate commerce. The Safeway processing plant to which the association's milk is hauled is in Maryland.

Terms of the out-of-court settlement will permit dairymen from a broad area of Virginia to sell to Safeway, through the association.

The settlement spells out quotas for the following market areas: Charlottesville, Front Royal, Strasburg - Middletown, Fredericksburg - Warsaw, Harrisonburg, Bridgewater, Luray - Elkhorn, Shenandoah, Staunton - Waynesboro, Tidewater and Winchester.

Milk Dispute Is Settled In Favor Of Producers

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A dispute between the State Milk Commission and a group of Virginia and Maryland milk producers has been settled out of court, apparently in favor of the farmers.

A notice of the settlement was filed in Richmond U.S. District Court, where the producers had asked for an injunction.

Involved were sales by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association to Safeway Stores Inc., a supermarket chain.

The association said the commission was trying to restrict the sales to certain dairy farmers in the Fredericksburg area, farmers selected "arbitrarily" by the commission.

The association contended such action was placing illegal restrictions on interstate commerce. The Safeway processing plant to which the association's milk is hauled is in Maryland.

Terms of the out-of-court settlement will permit dairymen from a broad area of Virginia to sell to Safeway, through the association.

The settlement spells out quotas for the following market areas: Charlottesville, Front Royal, Strasburg - Middletown, Fredericksburg - Warsaw, Harrisonburg-Bridgewater, Luray - Elkton-Shenandoah, Staunton - Waynesboro, Tidewater and Winchester.

WOULD GO TO CUBA — Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston, offers to go to Cuba of Communist China to intercede for Americans held prisoner. Cushing had disclosed earlier that he was "the mysterious donor" who raised $1 million to ransom recently released Cuban prisoners. He said he hoped that raising money from people of all faiths would have a tremendous impact in Latin America."

China Rejects Truce Proposal

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Communist China has rejected the Colombo proposals for a truce with India and taken a tough new line on Indian troop movements in the Himalayas, well-informed sources here said today.

Apprehension rose in some circles that the Chinese might strike again at India in a renewal of last autumn's invasion.

Proposals by the six nonaligned nations that met in Colombo, Ceylon, were designed to stabilize the cease-fire with which the Chinese halted their successful drive along the border and to lead to negotiations.

But the Chinese have refused to accept a provision for Indians to re-enter some areas from which they were driven in the fall, informants said.

The Indian government had planned to submit the proposals to Parliament after it met Jan. 21.

Gerson Heads County Bar Association

Milton Gerson was elected president of the Allegany County Bar Association at a meeting yesterday in the Bar Library of Allegany County Circuit Court.

He succeeds Horace P. Whitworth Jr. Others elected were:

William L. Wilson, vice president; John C. Sullivan, secretary, and Ronald C. Sullivane, treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Simon F. Reilly, Leslie J. Clark and Whitworth.

A resident of 822 Camden Avenue, Gerson was born in Frostburg and graduated from Beal High School there. He also graduated from Potomac State College and the University of Maryland Law School.

Gerson is a veteran of World War II, having served four years in the Navy. He has been practicing law since 1937 and holds membership in the American Bar Association, Maryland State Bar Association and NACCA Association, besides the count bar unit.

A member of the law firm of Reilly, Gerson and Carpenter, with offices in the Algonquin Hotel, Gerson is active in Democratic Party politics. He is treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany County.

A member of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners, Gerson was appointed chairman of the unit in 1961 by Governor J. Millard Tawes.

Gerson is married to the former Miss Jeanne Lazarus. They have three children, Ellen, a junior student at Allegany High School, and Louise and Richard, students at Mt. Royal School.

Van Parsons Is Elected By Brotherhood

Van H. Parsons, 423 Cumberland Street, has been elected to his third consecutive four-year term as general chairman for the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Western Maryland Railway system.

A native of Tucker County, Parsons started working as a brakeman on the Western Maryland in 1937.

In 1945, he was elected local chairman of the BRT on the Western Division of the Western Maryland Railway.

He held that post until 1950, when he was elected general chairman on the system to fill the unexpired term of W. O. Kennedy.

Later that year, Parsons was chosen for a four-year term. This was followed by subsequent elections in 1954, 1958 and this year.

This year, Parsons was chosen for the office and for the first time had no opposition.

He represents lodges in Ridgeley, Bowes, Elkins, Hagerstown, Baltimore and Dunbar, Pa.

Many Voice Opposition To Fluoridation Move

Outright opposition to fluoridation as forced medication, criticism of the hasty action of the Mayor and Council and failure to allow the people to vote on the issue without submitting a petition highlighted opponents arguments at another lengthy and verbally warm session of the Mayor and Council yesterday.

There were a couple who spoke for fluoridation.

Mrs. Frances Catlett, 100 Wempe Drive, questioned the rush and hurry about fluoridation and said while she did not question the doctors and dentists, she had her own opinions and that the people should make the choice.

She called it forced medication and hinted council was not taking the action for the people "but for another reason," which, she said, she did not understand.

Mrs. Virginia Rosenbaum who said she spoke as editor of a newsletter for Teamsters Local 453, presented that group's opposition, asked if fluoride tablets could not be made available to those wanting them; and asked that the people's voting rights be given first consideration.

As editor of her own newspaper, she asked what she should do with a petition containing over 3,000 names asking for a referendum. City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen said the petition could be presented at anytime and at discretion of council the question if petitions contained enough qualified voters, would either be submitted at a special election or at the next regular general election.

Also heard were Dr. Harold Malin, who questioned conflicting statements of authorities on which some members of council based their decision; Hunter Helfrich, 727 Sylvan Avenue, who proposed that the professional men set up a "dental foundation" and contribute one per cent of their income to further the cause of fluoridation and not ask the taxpayers to do it; Fred Myers (no address given), who said the people should have the right to a say in the matter and called it an "extravagant way to medicate children"; Mrs. Hazel McElfish, 604 East First Street, who said people she has contacted are losing faith in doctors and dentists; the Rev. B. F. Hartman, 116 Potomac Street, who said the public had not been fully informed about the cost of fluoridation and whether council's decision yesterday is final; Mrs. J. P. Ashenfelter, Somerville Avenue who

Youth Arrested In Auto Theft

KEYSER — A 15-year-old Huntingdon, Pa., boy is being held in Mineral County Jail in default of $1,000 bond for juvenile court action on a charge of grand larceny. The youth was jailed for alleged theft of a car belonging to Lewis Blackburn. The auto reportedly was stolen Friday night from behind Wolf's Furniture Store, Armstrong Street.

He was apprehended two hours after the incident in Moorefield.

The boy was given a hearing Saturday before Justice of Peace Madlyn Bazzle.

The Corps of Army Engineers, Baltimore District, will accept bids until 3 p.m. Tuesday, February 5, for improvement of the channel of the North Branch of the Potomac River in the vicinity of Smith Island here.

The contract will complete the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection work under a $350,000 accelerated public works allocation of Congress last year.

In 1959, when the Army Engineers turned the flood protection system over to Cumberland, there was a deposit of sand and gravel in the vicinity of Smith Island.

It was not possible to complete in Central YMCA.

The project also will call for deepening the river bed channel, according to the Army Engineers. The Baltimore District office is at 24th Street and Maryland Avenue, Baltimore, 18.

Local Man Given Suspended Term

Leroy E. Wheeler, of Benjamin Banneker Homes, was given a one-year suspended jail sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court. Wheeler last week pleaded guilty to an assault charge before magistrate Paul Barnett.

The local man was involved in a knife incident with his wife, Agnes Wheeler.

HOMEMAKERS TO CELEBRATE STATE COUNCIL ANNIVERSARY

A special educational program is being planned in recognition of the 25th anniversary of the Maryland State Council of Homemakers' Clubs. Miss Mary Wise said last evening. It is to be held at the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, February 21, in the form of a luncheon at noon.

Recognition will be given to all former council presidents, those participating in the organization meeting of the state council, and many friends of home demonstration work. They include the president of the University of Maryland, dean of agriculture, two former directors of extension and others who have helped in the development of the work.

Miss Eunice Heywood, director of the division of home economics, Federal Extension Service, A.S.D.A., will speak on "A Life of Learning". Other educational features are being planned.

Any homemaker is eligible to attend. Reservations are to be made with W. Donald Miller, R.D. 2, Havre de Grace, by February 12.

CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Catherine Barnard was hostess to members of the Past Presidents of the American Legion Auxiliary at her home on Beall Street last week.

A short business session was conducted by Mrs. Pauline Smith. Following the meeting, games were played and a luncheon served. Prizes were won by Mrs. Margaret Graim and Mrs. Maud Banzhof.

Others present were Mrs. Ovelia Walker, Mrs. Marie Kelly, Mrs. Effie Vogel and Mrs. Hazel Harvey. Guests were Mrs. Katherine Kerns, Mrs. Betty Rider, Mrs. Mary Louise Stewart and Mrs. Mary Ellen Rider.

Mrs. Walker will be hostess to the group in February.

LaVale Club To Assist 4-H Girls

Plans for a workshop and to collect scraps of material for the 4-H Girls were discussed at a meeting of the LaVale Homemakers Club conducted by Mrs. T. E. Williamson Monday at the fire hall.

Mrs. W. Donald Long, 4-H representative, reported on the project of the LaVale club and asked for scraps of material for head scarfs to be made by the girls for the patients in the hospital in Jordan. She explained it is considered almost a disgrace to have the head uncovered.

The workshop will be held at the home of Mrs. Williamson, 1204 National Highway, January 23, beginning at 10:30 a.m. It will be for making corduroy smocked pillows, Swedish weaving and flagging for those interested.

Three appointments were made. Mrs. Long was appointed new clothing chairman; Mrs. Douglas Smith, RWSC representative, who spoke on the importance of attending College Week for Women; and Mrs. Ellis Burkett, home furnishing chairman.

Mrs. John Mace was installed as vice president, by Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Douglas Ferguson reported on the groceries delivered to a family in December. Mrs. Paul Beale was accepted as a member. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Cameron Otto and Mrs. J. Wesley Utterback. The latter also spoke on "Mrs. Consumer Looks to the Future."

Plans were discussed for the 32nd birthday of the club. It is to be celebrated with a covered dish luncheon at the February meeting at the fire hall. The LaVale 4-H mothers will be guests. Mrs. Douglas Ferguson will bake the birthday cake.

It was announced that there will be no program books until June, but mimeographed programs will be sent to each member. The flag salute was given in unison and the words of "All Beautiful the March of Days," repeated. The history of the hymn was given by Mrs. Long. Mrs. Smith read the collect. Sixteen members attended the meeting, which closed with the singing of America.

Flintstone PTA will meet at 8 Thursday at the school. Room visitation will be at 7:30.

POTOMAC PARK SOCIETY DISCUSSES PROJECTS

A discussion was led by Mrs. Mary Bever on, "You Are Needed", at the Potomac Park W.S.W.S. meeting. It included foster homes, emotionally disturbed children and adults, mentally retarded and children with a handicap, juvenile delinquents, addicts and unwed mothers. The question, "How can we as individuals and the church as a whole help these people?" was raised. Those taking part were: Mrs. Lola Fairgrieve, Mrs. Audrey Witt, Mrs. Ann Fales, Mrs. Betty Alkire, Mrs. Helen Price. A poem, "Hark the voice of Jesus Calling," was read by Mrs. Bever. The group sang, "Love Divine," "Take My Life and Let It Be," accompanied by Mrs. Shirley Paxton.

Mrs. Thea Crowe gave a financial report and stated that the offerings so far this year have exceeded any other year. She also explained the use of envelopes. A discussion on the proposed "Mothers' Room" was held. All interested persons and officers were urged to attend the church council meetings.

The study book will be held on January 24 and 31 at the church beginning at 7 p.m.

Mrs. John Zink reported an area meeting of the churches to prepare for World Day of Prayer has been called by Mrs. Merle Shumaker. It is to be at St. John's Lutheran Church today at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Hazel Powell reported the final days of good used clothing collection for the Friends Aware rummage sale will be April 1-15 at the church.

The annual church "Birthday Party" will be held February 10 at 7 p.m. in the church basement. A committee was named to make final plans for the program. Mrs. Eloise Shaffer, Mrs. Paxton, Mrs. Zink were named.

Mrs. Ina Jones asked everyone to continue to save her nylon. She said the previous response was gratifying.

It was decided to visit the Quincy Home at the annual homecoming on June 7. As this is the society project for this year, everyone was urged to continue their handiwork to be sent for their bazaar at that time.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Fairgrieve, Mrs. Eleanor Cornelius and Mrs. Zink are to investigate price and material for new dossal, drape, altar and lectern scarfs.

An invitation was issued to any woman who wishes to join the Bowling Green Fire Auxiliary to contact Mrs. Mary Sheetz.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Shaffer. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Paxton, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Price.

The meeting of the Algonquin Chapter, NSA dance committee, scheduled for tonight has been postponed until January 22, at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, 613 Hill Top Drive.

ALLEGANY SADDLE CLUB OFFICERS — Officers for 1963 were elected and installed by the Allegany Saddle Club at its meeting earlier this month at the Baltimore Pike fire hall. They are left to right, Jones A. Smoak, retiring president; Mrs. Ann Matlick, new president; Hyder Reed, vice president, and Mrs. Mounsey Smoak, treasurer. A social followed the meeting. The next meeting will be February 4.

FLINTSTONE CLUB PLANS WORKSHOP

Members of the Flintstone Homemakers Club formulated plans for a workshop at the meeting Friday evening at the Methodist Church. Each member is to bring their own project to the next meeting, which will be February 8 at the church.

The meeting was opened with the group saying the Lord's Prayer, and singing, "O Beautiful the March of Days." The history of the hymn was given by Miss Pearl Wilson. Mrs. Curtis Nash and Mrs. Kenneth McLaughlin gave a demonstration, "Mrs. Consumer Looks to the Future." Mrs. Arthur Howard reported on the executive board meeting.

Mrs. Martin Gordon announced that Miss Hattie Wilson will be 90 years old January 13. Mrs. William Mauzy received the gift of the month. Mrs. Ralph Moore and Mrs. Lawrence Smith received birthday gifts from their secret sisters.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Raymond Hammons and Mrs. Mable Bible. Eighteen members attended. A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served by Mrs. Blaine Burgess, Mrs. Roland Gilson and Mrs. Gordon.

NEWCOMERS CLUB PLANS CARD PARTY, CHURCH TOUR

The Newcomers Club had Dr. N. L. Barger as guest speaker at the meeting Thursday evening at Emmanuel Episcopal parish house. Plans were formulated to include a tour of the church at the next meeting which will be February 14 at 8 p.m.

A Newcomers Couples card party will be held February 23. It will be at the Cumberland Country Club.

Dr. Barger's subject was "Hypnosis in the Field of Dentistry."

After giving a brief background of the early uses and opinions concerning hypnosis, Dr. Barger explained the value of hypnosis in the medical fields, when administered by trained professional people, who know the special circumstances when the use of hypnosis can benefit the patient.

Because the use of hypnosis in the entertainment world presents many conflicts which often deter its usefulness and success in the medical fields, Dr. Barger explained the importance of helping the public understand its uses and how its use can be of benefit.

During the question and answer period, there were some concerning personal use and tips on how to achieve complete relaxation for a few minutes during a busy day.

The evening was concluded by a short business session, followed by refreshments. New members were Mrs. Neil Moon, Mrs. O. W. Simpson, Mrs. Jack Entwistle, Mrs. Lee Pifroger and Mrs. Blair Harmony. Miss Norma Smith was a guest. The prize of the evening was won by Mrs. Edward Weber.

The new officers are Mrs. Frances Aman, president; Mrs. LaVerne Tewell, vice president; Miss Ann Lottig, secretary, and Mrs. Edith Shanholtz, treasurer.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Serf is chairman of arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. Mildred George and Mrs. Virginia Swach.

SECRETS OF CHARM

PERSUADING PRE-TEENS TO DIET POSES PROBLEMS

The little girl who just loves to home eat is no different from big girls with the same healthy appetites and emotional makeup. She finds it just as difficult to diet.

In fact, dieting is even more difficult for a child than it is for an adult since she doesn't yet have the education and the experience to comprehend completely the long-range health and beauty factors that are involved.

She can only take her parents' words in the case against obesity from the viewpoint of obesity from the viewpoint of obesity and longevity. In most instances, those words couldn't mean less to her. The consequences threatened by a lifetime of overeating seem remote to someone so very young.

The more they sound like promises of punishment, the more she might be tempted to quell her fears and insecure feelings with the comfort food offers.

Appealing to her vanity may be a bit more successful. Little girls do possess a certain amount of vanity. They hate to be called Tubby and Fatty and Pudge. The teasing and name-calling hurt, but they're not likely to drive a little girl into the sensible path of calorie counting. It takes the social pressures and emotional drives of adolescence to give most young heavyweights the kind of sharp jabbing their vanity needs to motivate a genuine change in eating habits.

Positive advice is best given individually by a family's personal physician . . . and directed to the parents more than to the child herself. For it's their own example—at meals and between—that helps their child to learn how to curb and control food habits.

And it's up to mothers, most of all, to prepare the delicious low-calorie dishes and provide the right kind of snacks that will make her daughter's "diet" pleasant and painless.

If everyone in the family partakes of the same general menu (and this certainly won't do any of them harm!), the chubby will have no reason to feel singled out and shamed—and should find it much easier to adjust her attitude toward food.

Mrs. Merle Shumaker, World Day of Prayer chairman, has called a meeting of all area church representatives for 10 this morning at St. John's Lutheran Church. Societies are urged to send delegates to receive the material.

City Backs Plan For Additional Public Housing

A resolution approving the application of the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland for funds to plan further low-rent housing projects here was approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The resolution pointed out that the need for housing within the means of low-income family exists here.

It also approved the application of the Housing Authority to the Public Housing Administration for a preliminary loan not to exceed $35,000 for surveys and planning in connection with low-rent housing projects of not to exceed 200 dwelling units.

City officials said they were told that half of the dwelling units contemplated in the plans would be for a project which would provide housing within the means of low-income senior citizens, and the other 100 for low-income families.

Defendant Wins Civil Action

A verdict for the defendant was handed down yesterday morning in Allegany County Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris who heard a civil suit stemming from a hunting trip near Mexico Farms in 1959 in which a local man was wounded.

David A. McFarland, 749 Maryland Avenue, through his attorney, Earl E. Manges, filed the suit against Leo Williams, Queen Street. The latter was represented by Attorney Milton Gerson.

The plaintiff contended that while hunting with the defendant near Mexico Farms on November 26, 1959, the defendant's gun discharged and McFarland was shot in the left lower leg, was hospitalized and lost a year of schooling at the West Virginia University in Morgantown.

McFarland, who incurred medical and hospital expenses, filed the suit and sought $5,000 damages.

City To Add

(Continued from page 14) sense of "pride and humility" in accepting the responsibility of voting on such an issue. He said the city is on the threshold of a new era, the world is changing and "We cannot be so foolish as to not to change with it."

"We must continue to provide for the education of our young people—for the rehabilitation of our mentally ill—for the care of our older citizens and those not able to cope with the daily task of taking care of our children's teeth."

"We must begin to condition ourselves to anticipate—to plan for the future. If we are to succeed in the present, we cannot rely on counter punching."

"During the past four terms, I have come to discover how important it is for city councilmen to be firm in these decisions. In being an elected representative of the people of the City of Cumberland, I am also the servant of the people who benefit by the city's sharing of the water supply. We cannot operate in a vacuum—we cannot cling to the past doggedly refusing to abandon old philosophies—when they cannot apply to current conditions."

"Let us not be afraid to experiment—let us not be afraid to risk failure—let us not be afraid to explore fully the course open to us in the future for fear of criticism from those who do not agree."

Mrs. Roeder said she felt it was her responsibility to make decisions to the best of her ability and that the people expect her to "stand for something." So far, she had tried to do so for the betterment and welfare of the community.

In some cases, a commissioner must depend on qualified authorities in arriving at a decision, she said, and then named a number of medical, dental and allied groups who have supported fluoridation.

"Therefore, I feel that my vote is based on something substantial and is for the welfare of future generations."

Hill said he had nothing further to add to what he had said previously in support of fluoridation but he later read a letter from the surgeon general of the U.S. Luther Terry, in which he urged all communities to adopt fluoridation and another statement from Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy that it is the right of government to take steps to protect the public health.

Counting an extra point for possession of all the aces, South found that he held 26 points plus a good six card suit, more than enough to open with a demand bid of two hearts. After his partner's negative response of two no trump, he persisted by rebidding three hearts, and North dutifully raised to four.

West's opening lead of the four of diamonds was a most effective choice inasmuch as it did not present the slightest advantage to the declarer. South captured East's jack of diamonds with the ace and, though he could readily see that sev-

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 15 who is writing this letter in behalf of myself and my 17-year-old brother.

Our father died three months ago. He was a fine man and we loved and respected him. For two months after his death we didn't go anywhere except to school, to church, and to the cemetery with Mom. We didn't turn on the radio or the hi-fi or the TV.

Now, both my brother and I want to date, and get active in school affairs again. Mom says we are blaspheming our father's memory by even thinking of amusing ourselves. She turns off the music when she comes into our rooms and lectures us about respect for the deceased. According to her, mourning should last one full year. She wears black from head to foot and says she plans to do so indefinitely.

Are we wrong to feel as we do? Please print this letter and your advice. Talking to Mother does no good. — RESPECTFUL BUT LIVING

Dear Respectful: Prolonged mourning is unhealthy and it serves no useful purpose. Teenagers should not be expected to exclude themselves from school activities and isolate themselves from life when a parent dies. The meaningful way to honor your father's memory is by being the kind of children you know your Dad would want you to be.

Ask your clergyman to speak to your mother. She's not thinking clearly these days.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column you told a woman she was sappy as a maple tree in April.

Up here in Wisconsin the maple trees get sappy in February. I thought you might like to know. Thank you. — COLEMAN, WIS., READER

Dear Reader: I appreciate the information, but February doesn't rhyme with maple. I know neither does April, but it's a lot closer.

Dear Ann Landers: Is it possible for a woman who has had two marriage failures to make a go of it with a man who has never been married?

At age 17 I jumped into one of those war marriages—impetuous, crazy, — everybody was doing it. When he came home three years later we had nothing in common. After seven months of no communication we were divorced.

The following year I married a man who seemed devoted and kind. He told me his wife had died of cancer and he was raising their two little girls. He turned out to be a sadist and a liar. I learned his wife had committed suicide. When he beat the youngest girl with an appliance cord and knocked me across the room I filed for divorce. I asked for, and got the girls.

Now I've met a real man. He is my age (40), and is the grandest person I've ever known. He loves the girls and wants to marry me. Everyone thinks it would be wonderful, I know it would be — for me. But what about him? Please advise. — BLUE JAY

Dear Blue Jay: You have a good understanding of why your two previous marriages failed. The fact that you seem preoccupied with the happiness of your friend rather than your own happiness is also an encouraging signal. And, too, none of the elements which contributed to the failures seem present in this relationship.

If the man wants to marry you, with full knowledge of your past, I say go ahead, Girl, and good luck.

Government Public Relations Staffs

Rep. Wright Patman's continuing investigation of tax-exempt philanthropic foundations has been instructive. It has established the need for some substantial changes in their status and practices. But Mr. Patman's latest interim report invites challenge.

He professes to be shocked by foundation expenditures for public relations or, as he puts it, for "brain-washing activities." Whether foundation expenditures for this purpose can be justified, they cannot be considered apart from the national overemphasis on public relations.

Mr. Patman might be even more shocked if he totaled what the federal government spends for public relations. Every Cabinet department includes a numerous public relations staff and thousands of officers in the armed services are assigned to public relations work.

The White House has a large press staff. And Congressional public relations expenditures include vast sums for needless pages of the Congressional Record and for the newsletters, press releases and other material flooding constituencies.

Equally unpersuasive are some of Mr. Patman's new recommendations. All foundations, he says, should be required to spend all their assets and liquidate in 25 years. And he wants to create a new government agency to supervise them.

Why a foundation should not be permitted to exist as long as it is efficiently performing a useful public service is something Mr. Patman does not make clear. And if, as he charges, the Treasury Department has been "lax in enforcement of the law and regulations" affecting foundations, the proper remedy is to require the Treasury to meet its responsibilities—not to add to an already overgrown federal bureaucracy. With still another public relations staff.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

A British Liberal

Floating around the eastern part of the United States these days is a tall, attractive Englishman named Joseph—or Jo (without an "e" on the end of it)—Grimond. He is the leader of the British Liberal Party, which is making something of a comeback in its home isle after long years spent in the wilderness.

Grimond appeared at Yale University last week as a Chubb Fellow, thus joining ex-President Truman, ex-Attorney General Herbert Brownell, and Senator Barry Goldwater in a list of luminaries who have been reckoned sufficiently important to be invited to spend several days talking to undergraduates about the great world of politics. This week Grimond is scheduled to appear in Washington, D. C., under the control of industrial unions whose leadership has cared little for the perpetuation of a freely competitive economic system.

The English Liberal leader had much to say to the Yale boys about the desirability of British participation in the European Common Market. But what interested me particularly about his conversation was his analysis of social forces which points to the possible decline and break-up of the Labour Party in England. The same forces are at work today in America, eroding the power base that once threatened to put Washington, D. C., under the control of industrial unions whose leadership has cared little for the perpetuation of a freely competitive economic system.

In Britain, the evangelistic fervor of the middle Nineteen Forties seems to have gone out of the Labour Party. The party intellectuals, headed by Hugh Gaitskell, do not speak the language of the trade union wing. As the lure of nationalized industries loses its glitter, no longer serving as an issue to bind trade unionists and intellectuals, a middle class "swing vote" has deserted Labour for the Conservatives.

But if Mr. Grimond is right, this swing vote cannot really feel at home in the Conservative Party of dukes and landed gentry and believers in the old-style British imperial mission. Grimond makes the point that his Liberal Party stands for the right to own property. But he speaks for a new order of property people, the young technicians of industry who own somewhat Americanized homes complete with refrigerators, washing machines, television sets and at least one car standing outside at the curb. Grimond is making his appeal to members of the newly affluent classes who wish to see British industry delivered from the toils of government bureaucracy on the one hand, and the old system of cartelized monopoly on the other.

He spoke last week of efforts to spread the ownership of voting stock in British corporations, possibly by giving tax concessions to businesses which sell shares on a preferential basis to their own employees.

If the Conservative Party fails to hold the young defectors from the Gaitskell wing of the Labour Party, the Liberal Party might suddenly re-emerge as the second party in British politics. At the very least it may aspire to become a balance-of-power group with sufficient representation in Parliament to force significant compromises on both the Conservative majority and the "loyal opposition" as symbolized by Labour's Hugh Gaitskell.

The revivalification of British Liberalism, which is something quite distinct from the collectivist liberalism of those Americans who would be called Socialists if they lived in England, is part of a world phenomenon. On the continent of Europe this phenomenon has resulted in the decline of the old Marxist parties. In Germany the new realignment of forces has compelled the old Social Democratic Party to repudiate Marx's insistence on government ownership of the means of production.

In the United States the emergence of young families with a property stake in society that is far more widely diffused than was the case in the Nineteen Thirties is making trouble for Republicans and Democrats alike. The young, whose parents were Roosevelts, do not feel comfortable under the Republican label. But they do not want to be run by a coalition consisting of Walter Reuther and the left-wing Farmers Union. So they back and fill, electing Eisenhower at one time, and defeating Richard Nixon by a hair's breadth at another.

Maybe, if Grimond stresses the portent to President Kennedy of the Liberal Party as related to the English scene, he will, by force of the unspoken analogy, point the way to a Presidential reconsideration of the Democratic Party's power base.

'We Have A New Kickoff Rule'

A Ray Of Light In Integration Controversy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A ray of light has come at last into the controversy over "integration" in the public schools. It came as a result of the Thanksgiving Day race riot here when the football teams from two high schools — one almost entirely white and the other predominantly colored — met in an all-city championship game.

In keeping with the sincere efforts of many people to find some human solution of the friction over school integration, the local superintendent of schools, Carl F. Hansen, appointed a special commission of prominent men and women, Negro and white, to investigate what happened and to make recommendations.

The report is a lengthy one and deserves national attention. It should be widely publicized, at least among educators who are grappling with the problem of enforced integration in the public schools. Dr. Shane MacCarthy, who was a prime mover in the national program for youth fitness under President Eisenhower, headed the commission. In his letter submitting the report, he says in part:

"Testimony before the full committee developed an awareness of administrative lack of control over hoodlum elements in the school system and a deteriorating condition in mass audience events outside the school buildings.

"Violence, assaults, disrespect of teachers are acts of an undesirable element of students. An atmosphere of 'permissiveness' has discouraged the personnel of many schools and caused a city-wide lessening of discipline standards. Fear rages through many school buildings which have become tramping grounds for outside influences, including thugs, hoodlums, and persons of the lowest character.

The school administration has difficulty in coping with this situation. The morale of many teachers has suffered and the percentage of resignations and transfers has increased. Nevertheless, school officials fail to co-operate with police and report violations of the law nor do they maintain a city-wide reporting system of incidents of misconduct. With such a climate in the school system, students receive strong citizenship qualities in far too many cases and the result has been a steadily worsening misconduct problem in the public schools."

Government Public Relations Staffs

Rep. Wright Patman's continuing investigation of tax-exempt philanthropic foundations has been instructive. It has established the need for some substantial changes in their status and practices. But Mr. Patman's latest interim report invites challenge.

He professes to be shocked by foundation expenditures for public relations or, as he puts it, for "brain-washing activities." Whether foundation expenditures for this purpose can be justified, they cannot be considered apart from the national overemphasis on public relations.

Mr. Patman might be even more shocked if he totaled what the federal government spends for public relations. Every Cabinet department includes a numerous public relations staff and thousands of officers in the armed services are assigned to public relations work.

The White House has a large press staff. And Congressional public relations expenditures include vast sums for needless pages of the Congressional Record and for the newsletters, press releases and other material flooding constituencies.

Equally unpersuasive are some of Mr. Patman's new recommendations. All foundations, he says, should be required to spend all their assets and liquidate in 25 years. And he wants to create a new government agency to supervise them.

Why a foundation should not be permitted to exist as long as it is efficiently performing a useful public service is something Mr. Patman does not make clear. And if, as he charges, the Treasury Department has been "law in enforcement of the law and regulations" affecting foundations, the proper remedy is to require the Treasury to meet its responsibilities—not to add to an already overgrown federal bureaucracy. With still another public relations staff.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

A British Liberal

Floating around the eastern part of the United States these days is a tall, attractive Englishman named Joseph—or Jo (without an "e" on the end of it)—Grimond. He is the leader of the British Liberal Party, which is making something of a comeback in its home isle after long years spent in the wilderness.

Grimond appeared at Yale University last week as a Chubb Fellow, thus joining ex-President Truman, ex-Attorney General Herbert Brownell, and Senator Barry Goldwater in a list of luminaries who have been reckoned sufficiently important to be invited to spend several days talking to undergraduates about the great world of politics. This week Grimond is scheduled to appear in Washington for a meeting with President Kennedy.

The English Liberal leader had much to say to the Yale boys about the desirability of British participation in the European Common Market. But what interested me particularly about his conversation was his analysis of social forces which points to the possible decline and break-up of the Labour Party in England. The same forces are at work today in America, eroding the power base that once threatened to put Washington, D. C., under the control of industrial unions whose leadership has cared for the perpetuation of a freely competitive economic system.

In Britain, the evangelistic fervor of the middle Nineteen Forties seems to have gone out of the Labour Party. The party intellectuals, headed by Hugh Gaitskell, do not speak the language of the trade union wing. As the lure of nationalized industries loses its glitter, no longer serving as an issue to bind trade unionists and intellectuals, a middle class "swing vote" has deserted Labour for the Conservatives.

But if Mr. Grimond is right, this swing vote cannot really feel at home in the Conservative Party of dukes and landed gentry and believers in the old-style British imperial mission. Grimond makes the point that his Liberal Party stands for the right to own property. But he speaks for a new order of property people, the young technicians of industry who own something Americanized homes complete with refrigerators, washing machines, television sets and at least one car standing outside at the curb. Grimond is making his appeal to members of the newly affluent classes who wish to see British industry delivered from the toils of government bureaucracy on the one hand, and the old system of cartelized monopoly on the other.

He spoke last week of efforts to spread the ownership of voting stock in British corporations, possibly by giving tax concessions to businesses which sell shares on a preferential basis to their own employees.

If the Conservative Party fails to hold the young defectors from the Gaitskell wing of the Labour Party, the Liberal Party might suddenly re-emerge as the second party in British politics. At the very least it may aspire to become a balance-of-power group with sufficient representation in Parliament to force significant compromises on both the Conservative majority and the "loyal opposition" as symbolized by Labour's Hugh Gaitskell.

The revivification of British Liberalism, which is something quite distinct from the collectivist liberalism of those Americans who would be called Socialists if they lived in England, is part of a world phenomenon. On the continent of Europe this phenomenon has resulted in the decline of the old Marxist parties. In Germany the new realignment of forces has compelled the old Social Democratic Party to repudiate Marx's insistence on government ownership of the means of production.

In the United States the emergence of young families with a property stake in society that is far more widely diffused than was the case in the Nineteen Thirties is making trouble for Republicans and Democrats alike. The young, whose parents were Rooseveltians, do not feel comfortable under the Republican label. But they do not want to be part of a coalition consisting of Walter Reuther and the left-wing Farmers Union. So they back and fill, electing Eisenhower at one time, and defeating Richard Nixon by a hair's breadth at another.

Maybe, if Grimond stresses the portent to President Kennedy of the Liberal Party as related to the English scene, he will, by force of the unspoken analogy, point the way to a Presidential reconsideration of the Democratic Party's power base.

'We Have A New Kickoff Rule'

A Ray Of Light In Integration Controversy

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A ray of light has come at last into the controversy over "integration" in the public schools. It came as a result of the Thanksgiving Day race riot here when the football teams from two high schools — one almost entirely white and the other predominantly colored — met in an all-city championship game.

In keeping with the sincere efforts of many people to find some human solution of the friction over school integration, the local superintendent of schools, Carl F. Hansen, appointed a special commission of prominent men and women, Negro and white, to investigate what happened and to make recommendations.

The report is a lengthy one and deserves national attention. It should be widely publicized, at least among educators who are grappling with the problem of enforced integration in the public schools. Dr. Shane MacCarthy, who was a prime mover in the national program for youth fitness under President Eisenhower, headed the commission. In his letter submitting the report, he says in part:

"Integration is a most complicated undertaking. It is not accomplished simply by opening classroom doors. It is not brought about by a paper decision to recognize the rights of fellow citizens. It is not achieved by an emotional urge that follows the prodding of the heart rather than the leadership of the head. We do a grave disservice to boys and girls of both races when we direct them to integrate and thrust them into indiscriminate mingling without the thorough preparation which is a mandate for success in any undertaking."

Some of the teachers in the city's schools declined to testify at the commission's hearings. Some did so privately. Dr. MacCarthy adds:

"Not a single teacher to whom I have spoken in the past few weeks was surprised that the out-

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

considered vital legislation in the closing weeks.

It is obvious that the new strategy is being worked out with the backstage assistance and concurrence of the Kennedy administration. If the final decision is to work along these lines, it will represent a radical departure from the thinking of past administrations.

Congressional observers aren't convinced that the new strategy will prove to be productive, but they agree that 1963 is a good year to try it. If it works, it will redound to the benefit of the administration; if it fails, there's still 1964 and freshly-drawn battle lines on which Kennedy can make a fight for re-election to the White House.

The report gives details of the injuries and property damage. It tells of the interviews with as many eyewitnesses as could be persuaded to co-operate.

The fact stands out that conditions in the schools produced the tragic episode, almost unparalleled in the history of the country, as mob violence erupted during and after a game between teams from an almost all-white Catholic high school and an almost all-Negro public high school. There were 50,000 people in the stands. Officially listed at the time as injured and requiring medical treatment were 33 white persons and 7 Negroes. The new report confirms that several hundred other individuals were attacked and sustained injuries of one kind or another.

The lesson which all the teachers, of course, is that federal troops occupying the campus of the University of Mississippi do not furnish the answer to the integration problem. Nor do the constant stories in the press about the students' jeering of James Meredith touch any more than the superficial aspects of the controversy. The crusade for votes by the politicians who wish to capitalize on "integration" has ignored the fundamental human or another.

In the public schools in Washington 83 per cent of the students are colored. Integration of the races here is no different in its obstacles than those in the South.

The problems of human relationship will certainly never be solved by bayonets or by sit-in demonstrations or "freedom rides" or other agitation of that kind. Conformity by coercion will never succeed. An adjustment of race relations will come only when both sides determine what is the practicable and human thing to do, irrespective of the legal phraseology of federal court orders.

Cause Of Many Bleeding Disorders Unknown

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons bruise easily, often after a slight bump or friendly pinch. The black and blue mark that appears a few hours later stems from bleeding into the skin. We do not know why some individuals are more sensitive than others. The condition is more common in women and the walls of the vessels are negative.

In many instances, the defect is associated with increased fragility of the capillary walls. These vessels rupture easily and oozing continues longer than usual because of a breakdown of the blood coagulation mechanism. The hemorrhage varies from pinhead size (petechiae) to a large area (ecchymoses or hematomas). In some, hemorrhage may originate in the mouth, nose, or organs such as the stomach or bladder.

The hemophiliac is one of the most widely publicized types of bleeder. Those with thrombocytopenic purpura are more numerous. This tendency stems from a reduction in the number of platelets and differs from other bleeding disorders in that prothrombin and coagulation times are normal.

Most victims are children and less than 10 per cent are over 40. The defect may be traceable to the use of specific drugs, foods, vaccines, or physical agents. It also is associated with certain infections and blood disorders such as anemia and leukemia. If these known origins are eliminated, the condition disappears spontaneously.

But in some forms of thrombocytopenic purpura the cause cannot be found. The disease may come and go and the adrenal hormones (cortisone or prednisone) are helpful. The removal of the spleen brings cure in two out of three victims. There are other types of purpura and the allergic (anaphylactoid) purpura is most intriguing. We believe the individual is allergic to his own body tissues and the ensuing antibody reaction touches off the bleeding tendency.

Church Unity Octave Begins On Friday

LONACONING—Special prayers and sermons will be scheduled January 18-25 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in observance of the Church Unity Octave initiated by the Friars of the Atonement of Graymoor, New York.

The octave begins on the Feast of the Chair of St. Peter at Rome and ends on the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, and its purpose is to encourage unity of thought among persons of different religious beliefs and to unite them in prayer.

Rev. Frederick H. Duke, pastor of the host church said the exercises will begin each evening at 7:30. Members of the parish and any others who are interested are urged to offer Mass together each morning at 7.

An invitation has been mailed to every member of the Lonaconing community, both Catholic and non-Catholic, to attend the Octave devotions.

Following is a list of sermon topics and speakers:

Friday, January 18, "Unity of All Christians in One True Faith." Rev. James O'Hara, Cathedral of Mary Our Queen; January 19, "Return of Separated Eastern Christians to Communion With the Holy See." Father Patrick, OFM, Cap., superior of SS Peter and Paul monastery, Cumberland.

January 20, "Reconciliation of Anglicans," Rev. George F. Cora, St. Lawrence Church, Jessup; January 21, "Reconciliation of European Protestants," Rev. Joseph Krach, St. Peter's Church, Oakland; January 22, "That American Christians Might Become One in Union With the Holy See," Rev. Regis Larkin, St. Michael's Church, Frostburg.

January 23, "Restoration of Lapsed Catholics to The Fold," Rev. Thomas Fannon, St. Peter's Church, Westernport; January 24, "That Jewish People Might Come into Their Inheritance in Christ," Rev. John Lyness, St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland; January 25, "Missionary Extension of Christ's Kingdom Throughout the World," Rev. Clare J. O'Dwyer, director of the Catholic Youth Organization for the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Principal Will Speak

Education Bills Given To W. Va. Senate, House

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The bills also would extend identical eight-bill packages to school superintendents the authority to suspend or dismiss teachers, principals and supervisors. This authority presently is held only by the county school board.

The justice of the peace bill, introduced by Dels. Pat Board and Jesse Barker, both D-Canawha, differs from that ruled unconstitutional by the State Supreme Court September of 1961. Barker said the proposal provides that JPs be paid out of the county's general revenue fund instead of a special fund.

The education legislation was among 29 measures introduced Monday.

Other major bills would:

—Permit voluntary sterilization of adults and involuntary sterilization of mentally retarded minors.

—Raise the minimum automobile driving age from 16 to 18 but would allow 16-year-olds to obtain junior licenses.

Switch Kanawha County justices of the peace from a fee system to salaries.

—Establish a commission on medical examinations and a state medical examiner to supervise examinations and autopsies.

The education bills would tighten requirements for county school superintendents, raise salaries of superintendents in some of the smaller counties if requirements are met by May 1, 1968.

BARTON—The Friendly Helpers Bible Class will hold a spaghetti supper on Thursday from 5 to 7 p. m. in the social room of the First Methodist Church. The public is invited.

The most famous heavy lady in the United States is the Statue of Liberty. She weighs about 225 tons.

Church Unity Octave Begins On Friday

LONACONING—Special prayers and sermons will be scheduled January 18-25 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in observance of the Church Unity Octave initiated by the Friars of the Atonement of Graymoor, New York.

The octave begins on the Feast of the Chair of St. Peter at Rome and ends on the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, and its purpose is to encourage unity of thought among persons of different religious beliefs and to unite them in prayer.

Rev. Frederick H. Duke, pastor of the host church said the exercises will begin each evening at 7:30. Members of the parish and any others who are interested are urged to offer Mass together each morning at 7.

An invitation has been mailed to every member of the Lonaconing community, both Catholic and non-Catholic, to attend the Octave devotions.

Following is a list of sermon topics and speakers:

Friday, January 18, "Unity of All Christians in One True Faith." Rev. James O'Hara, Cathedral of Mary Our Queen; January 19, "Return of Separated Eastern Christians to Communion with the Holy See." Father Patrick, OFM, Cap., superior of SS Peter and Paul monastery, Cumberland.

January 20, "Reconciliation of Anglicans," Rev. George F. Cora, St. Lawrence Church, Jessup; January 21, "Reconciliation of European Protestants," Rev. Joseph Krach, St. Peter's Church, Oakland; January 22, "That American Christians Might Become One in Union with the Holy See," Rev. Regis Larkin, St. Michael's Church, Frostburg.

January 23, "Restoration of Lapsed Catholics to the Fold," Rev. Thomas Fannon, St. Peter's Church, Westernport; January 24, "That Jewish People Might Come into Their Inheritance in Christ," Rev. John Lyness, St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland; January 25, "Missionary Extension of Christ's Kingdom Throughout the World," Rev. Clare J. O'Dwyer, director of the Catholic Youth Organization for the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Police said the suffocation death of H. F. Butch of nearby St. Albans Sunday night apparently was suicide.

Butch's body was found by his wife in their home shortly before midnight Sunday with a plastic bag pulled over the victim's head.

The youth was identified by Trooper W. R. Dyer as 15-year-old Willard T. Brown, also of Glen White.

Dyer said Lambert was stabbed with a pocket knife while the two were arguing outside a grocery store. The boy became angered when Lambert bent his finger back, witnesses said. Lambert was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—A Raleigh County teenager waived preliminary hearing Monday and was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of murdering Carl W. Lambert, 20, of nearby Glen White, Sunday.

The youth was identified by Trooper W. R. Dyer as 15-year-old Willard T. Brown, also of Glen White.

Dyer said Lambert was stabbed with a pocket knife while the two were arguing outside a grocery store. The boy became angered when Lambert bent his finger back, witnesses said. Lambert was dead on arrival at a local hospital.

After Dinner Notes

Prince At His Best

Tony Likes Jackson

By C. V. BURNS

Notes and quotes from Sunday's 15th annual dinner of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club:

THE REV. Arthur W. Bastress, former assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Church and now at Glen Burnie:

"It was nostalgic coming to Cumberland. Never have I received as warm a welcome as I received this evening. Managing the Angels in the Dapper Dan Little League with boys of all religions and all races was enjoyable. In fact, I felt like I was born in Cumberland. I miss it very much but I'll guarantee the people of my new assignment I'll work for the children."

BOB PRINCE, the "Voice of the Pittsburgh Pirates" and the prince of toasters:

"When Suter Kegg referred to Dick Groat as Cardinal Groat he set the papacy back a thousand years."

Incidentally, that dapper-looking fellow who introduced Editor Kegg was also a Cardinal—Jim "Bromo" Ellsworth, who managed the champion Cardinals of the Dapper Dan Little League.

JACK FISHER of the San Francisco Giants and Frostburg's contribution to the majors:

"Thank you for the warm hand as the cow said to the farmer as she was being milked on a cold morning."

BOB PRINCE:

"When Dick Stuart was traded to the Red Sox he said he was going to Boston to make the fans forget Ted Williams. He could be going to Boston to make the fans forget baseball. There is nothing than Stuart."

BOB ROWLEY, University of Virginia grid star and recipient of the Dapper Dan Award:

"This is the biggest event of my life since the hogs got out of my truck on Lover's Leap. I would like to thank the persons who made this award possible."

BOB PRINCE:

"There's a rumor Pittsburgh is going to trade me to the Yankees for Mel Allen and Joe Brown is willing to throw in cash."

"Pitcher Earl Francis is a funny fellow. When he gets on the Pittsburgh team bus he says: 'OK freedom riders, pay attention now.'"

NEIL LABAR, sports publicist for the University of Maryland, formerly of Florida State:

"Please send some more football players to Maryland like Freddie Joyce."

RALPH TERRY, New York Yankees pitcher and 1962 World Series, who made a big hit here: "In the 1960 World Series my first pitch to Bill Mazeroski was high. John Blanchard told me to get the ball down and throw a slider belt high. I did. And Bill really hit it."

RED MACK, Pittsburgh Steeler and former Notre Dame grid star, who was introduced by Prince as "having more guts than a burglar" because of his small stature:

"Dick Groat was my idol but I turned to football. God gave me the speed and I learned how to trip and fall to avoid the big guys."

BOB PRINCE:

"If any of you fans visit Pittsburgh come to the booth at Forbes Field. There you will see two games—the one I'm talking about and the one you are watching."

AL SATTERFIELD, assistant football coach at Maryland:

"I must congratulate Cumberland for its contributions to Maryland like Joyce and Ronnie Mans. We hope to have more seniors at Maryland next year."

THOMAS B. FINAN, attorney general of Maryland and one-time football player at LaSalle High School:

"It's inspiring to see this crowd tonight. The Dapper Dan Club is to be congratulated for helping perpetuate competitive sports in the area."

(Thanks to General Finan for his complimentary remarks concerning the sports writing fraternity.)

JACK FISHER, Orioles' pitcher who was traded to the Giants:

"I hope to have a better record next year and I hope to battle Terry in the World Series and Willie McCovey hits the ball two feet higher than last year."

AL ABRAMS, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette sports editor and national president of the Dapper Dans:

"This has been a long and wonderful evening and I want to thank the sports celebrities."

Bill, incidentally, was born in West Virginia (Elk Garden), reared in Pennsylvania (Meyersdale), moved to Maryland to become mayor of Barreille before coming to Cumberland.

AL ABRAMS advised Bill Keehan on Friday that he was bringing a Japanese ambassador here for the dinner.

Introduced as Zukito Machita, the "ambassador" was the assistant manager of Pittsburgh's Hotel Hilton, and he rolled 'em in the aisles with his screamingly funny Japanese dialect.

BEFORE the dinner, Ralph Terry told the writer that Johnny Neun, has landed a new three-year contract with the Yankees.

Neun, a Baltimorean, is a product of Martinsburg of the old Blue Ridge League, once manager of the Yankees, Cincinnati, Kansas City and Newark, and is now chief scout and "trouble shooter" for the World Champions.

Johnny was a soccer and basketball referee in the WMI League back in the 1920s when the P.A.L. of Baltimore provided officials for games.

TERRY believes the acquisition of Sam Williams from the Dodgers will give the Yankees' pitching staff a shot in the arm this year.

"He's a fastball pitcher and should win a lot of games in the American League," Terry said.

SPEAKING of pitchers, Tony Venzon, the National League umpire, says Larry Jackson is the most promising in the National League.

A member of the N. L. arbiters' staff since 1957, Venzon, who hails from the Johnstown (Pa.) area and played basketball for Coach Bruce Fisher at Ferndale High School, expects to officiate in the World Series for the first time this year.

IN LISTING the names of persons recognized at the dinner we erred in elevating J. Glenn Beall, Jr., to the House of Representatives and noted golfer.

Tawes' Plan To Close Three Tracks Goes To State Legislature

Fairgo's 12 Days Would Go To Timonium

Mile Tracks Would Share 36 Dates From Bel Air, Raceway

By GEORGE BOWEN
ANNAPOLIS (UPI)—Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes personally sent to the Maryland Legislature Monday night a plan to close three of the state's 12 horse racing tracks.

He made no bones about it this time that he wants the overwhelmingly Democratic legislature to discontinue thoroughbred racing at Cumberland and Bel Air and harness racing at Baltimore Raceway.

Would Divide Dates

The 36 dates of the raceway and Bel Air would be divided among the major tracks—Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel—increasing each from 40 to 52 days a year. Cumberland's 12 days would be added to the same number at Timonium.

The same moves bogged down in a welter of racing proposals at the 1962 legislature. Gov. Tawes issued a statement putting his weight behind this year's effort in unmistakable terms.

"I am in favor of the racing bill introduced in the General Assembly tonight by the president of the senate and by the speaker of the house," he said simply.

Seeks More Taxes

As justification, he estimated the state would reap at least an additional $1.5 million in taxes on racing. Maryland now collects about $9 million a year from 278 racing days and nights.

The consolidation proposal would leave Maryland with three one-mile tracks and three half miles for thoroughbreds and the same number for harness horses.

In addition to Timonium, the small-time thoroughbred racing would continue at Marlboro and Hagerstown. The standardbred plants are at Oxon Hill, Laurel and Ocean Downs, each with 24 nights.

While Marlboro and Hagerstown would have only 12 days compared to Timonium's 24, Gov. Tawes said, "We are not closing the door" on future consideration of granting more to the two others. There are 12 days on the law books for a half-mile track never built at Pocomoke City.

Guarantees Fair Funds

The half-mile tracks have been operated in conjunction with fairs. Gov. Tawes allayed any fears that state aid for them will suffer because of the consolidation by guaranteeing the Maryland Fair Board $314,000, an increase of $50,000 a year.

C. Lamar Creswell, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association which represents thoroughbred owners, sent the governor a letter endorsing the proposal.

"The transfer of racing days from run-down and poorly patronized plants will permit concentration of capital expenditures for much needed expansion and improvements for the horsemen and the public," Creswell wrote.

Gov. Tawes also expressed the opinion it would strengthen Maryland racing for competition by increased days in New Jersey and New York and "by the possible establishment of thoroughbred racing in Pennsylvania."

Orioles Get Aparicio And Al Smith In Trade

Send Hoyt Wilhelm, Hansen, Nicholson, Ward To White Sox

sure he'd be assigned to the Baltimore outfield.

"I still got a job," he said, "and I hope they'll put me in the outfield. I don't see how they can do anything else because they've got (Brooks) Robinson to play third."

"It's got to be all right with me, and I'm going to do the best I can for them. I always did hit better when I was playing the outfield, both at Cleveland and in Chicago."

Smith, 34, found out about the trade, which was completed Monday morning, on a radio broadcast while he was at a barber shop. He hit .292 last season with 16 home runs and 82 runs batted in.

The Sox obtained relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, rookie third baseman Pete Ward, shortstop Ron Hansen and outfielder Dave Nicholson, and it looked like a good deal for the home team.

Hansen though he batted only .173 in 71 games after military service in the majors, 1960, compared to Aparicio's lifetime average of .266, despite a .241 mark last year. But Hansen hits the long ball and Aparicio, the league leader in stolen bases since 1956, doesn't.

Starred At Rochester

Ward almost was a key man, even though he never has played in the major leagues. He hit .328 with 22 home runs and 90 runs batted in with Rochester last year, and he could be the cleanup hitter manager Al Lopez has sought.

Wilhelm and Nicholson could be bonus acquisitions. Wilhelm, though 39, had a 1.49 earned run average last year and has a lifetime mark of 2.47. Nicholson, a $100,000 bonus baby who never has come through for Baltimore, hit .173 last season, but he was tabbed as a long ball hitter and could be valuable bench strength for the Sox.

Asked To Be Traded

Both Aparicio and Smith could be traded by the Orioles. Aparicio asked to be traded when he received his 1963 contract from the Sox, still unsigned, because it called for a pay cut. Smith, who also was asked to take a cut, was unhappy at third base, and was pleased with the deal because he was with the Trojans to Altoona February 15.

Coach Alan Stockholm yesterday announced that Allegany County Community College's basketball team will play Altoona (Pa.) Campus here Saturday night at 8 o'clock instead of at Altoona as originally scheduled.

A switch in dates sends the ACC Trojans to Altoona February 15.

Tawes' Plan To Close Three Tracks Goes To State Legislature

Fairgo's 12 Days Would Go To Timonium

Mile Tracks Would Share 36 Dates From Bel Air, Raceway

By GEORGE BOWEN
ANNAPOLIS (UPI)—Democratic Gov. J. Millard Tawes personally sent to the Maryland Legislature Monday night a plan to close three of the state's 12 horse racing tracks.

He made no bones about it this time that he wants the overwhelmingly Democratic legislature to discontinue thoroughbred racing at Cumberland and Bel Air and harness racing at Baltimore Raceway.

Would Divide Dates
The 36 dates of the raceway and Bel Air would be divided among the major tracks—Bowie, Pimlico and Laurel—increasing each from 40 to 52 days a year. Cumberland's 12 days would be added to the same number at Timonium.

The same moves bogged down in a welter of racing proposals at the 1962 legislature. Gov. Tawes issued a statement putting his weight behind this year's effort in unmistakable terms.

"I am in favor of the racing bill introduced in the General Assembly tonight by the president of the senate and by the speaker of the house," he said simply.

Seeks More Taxes
As justification, he estimated the state would reap at least an additional $1.5 million in taxes on racing. Maryland now collects about $9 million a year from 278 racing days and nights.

The consolidation proposal would leave Maryland with three one-mile tracks and three half miles for thoroughbreds and the same number for harness horses.

In addition to Timonium, the small-time thoroughbred racing would continue at Marlboro and Hagerstown. The standardbred plants are at Oxon Hill, Laurel and Ocean Downs, each with 24 nights.

While Marlboro and Hagerstown would have only 12 days compared to Timonium's 24, Gov. Tawes said, "We are not closing the door" on future consideration of granting more to the two others. There are 12 days on the law books for a half-mile track never built at Pocomoke City.

Guarantees Fair Funds
The half-mile tracks have been operated in conjunction with fairs. Gov. Tawes allayed any fears that state aid for them will suffer because of the consolidation by guaranteeing the Maryland Fair Board $314,000, an increase of $50,000 a year.

C. Lamar Creswell, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association which represents thoroughbred owners, sent the governor a letter endorsing the proposal.

"The transfer of racing days from run-down and poorly patronized plants will permit concentration of capital expenditures for much needed expansion and improvements for the horsemen and the public," Creswell wrote.

Gov. Tawes also expressed the opinion it would strengthen Maryland racing for competition by increased days in New Jersey and New York and "by the possible establishment of thoroughbred racing in Pennsylvania."

In Memoriam

In Memory of George Thomas Coleman who passed away 7 years ago today,
January 15, 1956.
More and more each day we miss him;
Friends may think the wound is
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by his Wife,
Daughters and Sons

In memory of Diane Lynn Newman who passed away January 15, 1959.
When the dewy light was fading
The angels came into our garden
And brought our sweetest flower.
Sadly missed by Mother and Father,
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newman

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all of our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us in the loss and following the death of our husband and father,
James Albert Twiss. We especially wish to thank Rev. Francis Montgomery, Rev.
Regis F. Larkin, the Pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and Mass Cards and those who donated cars for the funeral and all others who rendered assistance.
WIFE AND CHILDREN

We wish to thank all of our friends, relatives for their kindness shown us in our bereavement, the death of our husband and father, Herbert Broll. The cards and floral tributes are greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Herbert Broll and Children

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 229 October 1862 a new star began flashing metaphorically in the military heavens. Philip Henry (Little Phil) Sheridan had escaped from a quartermaster's desk in May 1862 to earn advancement from infantry captain to one-star brigadier in 35 days of action.

There were to be many soldierly feats in his record. Yet of all these he was to be remembered best for one in 1864, because of the poem, "Sheridan's Ride," by Thomas B. Read.

When Sheridan made the news that first brought him to the attention of poets, versifiers and doggerel writers, there already were dozens of lyrical paean to T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson.

To a Southern generation brought up on the lays of Sir Walter Scott and Thomas Babington Macaulay, it was natural for those soldiers with any aptitude for rhyming to be inspired to find among their leaders the likenesses of the heroes whose qualities were sung by Scott and Macaulay.

"Stonewall" Jackson was the man who caught their imagination more than any other leader, including Lee.

Sentiments they expressed about Jackson were to be put into more ringing and lasting form by John Williamson Palmer, who wrote "Stonewall Jackson's Way" (at left) to become as memorable in the South as "Sheridan's Ride" was in the North.

Tawes Backs State Vehicle Inspection Plan

Predicts Eventual Slot Control Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—"We would be better off without any system" than the old Maryland inspection of motor vehicles at private garages, Gov. Tawes said Monday night.

He strongly reaffirmed his stand in favor of having the state build and operate stations for annual inspections.

Gov. Tawes thus promptly cleared up some confusion that has arisen during the week-end about his position.

His democratic floor leader, Del. W. Dale Hess, D-Harford, introduced a bill Monday for inspection at commercial garages supervised by the State Police.

The governor in his state-of-the-state message Jan. 3 specifically had endorsed inspection at state buildings operated by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

While the governor said he had not talked with Hess nor seen his bill, he made it clear it would take a lot of convincing to change his mind.

Hughes Backs Bill

"I still favor the state-operated system," Tawes said. "I remember the other inspection we had. There was everything wrong with it and we would be better off without it than with it."

Maryland tried private garage inspections about a quarter of a century ago.

"All you had to do was give the man a dollar and get your sticker," Tawes recalled. "I favor a program that will really inspect and take the unsafe cars off our highways."

The state-operated system has worked satisfactorily and reduced highway fatalities in other states."

Two Baltimore County Democrats, Roy N. Staten and John Maguire, joined Hess in sponsoring the private garage bill in the house. It was offered also in the senate by two Republicans, George Hughes of Allegany and John Derr of Frederick.

Would Close Fairgo

A public hearing on the inspection of Maryland motor vehicles for defective equipment will be held Thursday in the house chamber.

Gov. Tawes also exhibited a firm position at an impromptu news conference on consolidation of Maryland's horse racing. He personally had the bills put in by the presiding officers of the house and senate and issued a statement backing them up.

The proposal would discontinue racing at Cumberland, Bel Air and Baltimore Raceway. The days would be transferred to Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie and Timonium.

He said he was not ready to state his position on the ticklish subjects of congressional redistricting and repeal of slot machines in four southern counties.

Gov. Tawes said he had not studied the report by the commission he named to advise on abolition of slots and pinball machines.

Long Study Ahead

"They didn't recommend any legislation," the governor said, "so we will have to study the issue long and hard. But we will have a bill."

On setting up an 8th congressional district, the governor said, "I have no plan whatsoever at this time."

He said he was hoping that one would be drafted that would be acceptable to the people and he would back it.

"I will bend myself over back wards to avoid a repetition of last year," he added.

The last legislature passed a bill which Gov. Tawes said was the consensus of democratic leaders and not only himself, to create the new district out of Prince Georges and Howard counties. It was petitioned to the ballot and defeated by the voters in November.

The new congressman was elected by state-wide vote, which Gov. Tawes said he opposes.

Man Injured In Car Crash

A 55-year-old Westernport man was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with injuries he received in a one-car accident near the Wiley Ford Bridge in South Cumberland.

Admitted to the hospital was Clyde Paugh, who received possible fractured ribs and a possible fractured pelvis. He was reported in "good" condition last night.

City Police Officer Robert Hershberger said Paugh was traveling north on Ford Avenue when his car struck several guard rails on the left side of the roadway and then hit a tree.

The accident occurred about 8 p.m. several hundred feet north of the Wiley Ford Bridge.

State House Identified

Gov. Tawes yesterday unveiled a marker identifying the historical significance of Maryland's state capitol for the first time since it was completed 183 years ago in Annapolis. At left are Sgts. John P. Stephens and Robert M. Garrell, of Ft. Myer, Va., members of the Third Infantry's Old Guard rifle and drum corps which performed in colonial uniforms at the ceremony. Behind Gov. Tawes is Harold R. Manakee of the Maryland Historical Society. Occasion for the ceremony was the 179th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris at the State House.

Fitness Group Will Convene Wednesday

Two officials of the State Commission on Physical Fitness will meet with the Allegany County Physical Fitness Commission at a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the fiesta room of Central YMCA.

Meeting here will be Paul J. Hoffman, executive director, and Dr. Leo Klein, administrative assistant, of the State Commission.

Robert M. Williams, general secretary of the Central YMCA, is chairman of the county commission which was organized last spring. Since then the commission has completed a survey designed to determine the scope of the physical fitness program in Allegany County.

Other members of the county commission are Mrs. Lenore K. Auker, physical education teacher at Allegany High School; Kenneth Babcock, soccer, track and golf coach at Frostburg State Teachers College; George A. Caswell, vice president and manager of the installment loan department of the Second National Bank; Rev. Russell E. Fink, Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church; Robert G. Garner, Barnes-Barnard-Geare; Dr. Thomas F. Lewis, surgeon; C. Eugene Mason, city recreation director; Dr. L. Louis Mould, obstetrician; Earl M. Nonnenmann, operator of Sports Shoppe; Lynn Patchin, YMCA physical director; Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education; Mrs. Henrietta P. Snyder, physical education teacher at Fort Hill High School; Dr. Robert S. Zimmerman, of Allegany Community College. Rev. Arthur Bastress, former assistant at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, was a member but he has been transferred to a church at Glen Burnie in Anne Arundel County. His vacancy has not been filled.

The state representatives will meet with the Washington County Commission at the YMCA in Hagerstown tonight at 8 o'clock and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Garrett County Commission at Accident Elementary School. Dr. Robert Gibson is chairman.

Admitted to the hospital was Clyde Paugh, who received possible fractured ribs and a possible fractured pelvis. He was reported in "good" condition last night.

City Police Officer Robert Hershberger said Paugh was traveling north on Ford Avenue when his car struck several guard rails on the left side of the roadway and then hit a tree.

The accident occurred about 8 p.m. several hundred feet north of the Wiley Ford Bridge.

Historic Md. State House Gets Identification Signs

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes unveiled Monday historical markers identifying the Maryland State House for the first time since it was completed 183 years ago.

The occasion was "Ratification Day," the 179th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris in the old senate chamber of the State House. The treaty formally ended the Revolutionary War.

Two officials of the State Commission on Physical Fitness will meet with the Allegany County Physical Fitness Commission at a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday in the fiesta room of Central YMCA.

Meeting here will be Paul J. Hoffman, executive director, and Dr. Leo Klein, administrative assistant, of the State Commission.

Robert M. Williams, general secretary of the Central YMCA, is chairman of the county commission which was organized last spring. Since then the commission has completed a survey designed to determine the scope of the physical fitness program in Allegany County.

Other members of the county commission are Mrs. Lenore K. Auker, physical education teacher at Allegany High School; Kenneth Babcock, soccer, track and golf coach at Frostburg State Teachers College; George A. Caswell, vice president and manager of the installment loan department of the Second National Bank; Rev. Russell E. Fink, Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church; Robert G. Garner, Barnes-Barnard-Geare; Dr. Thomas F. Lewis, surgeon; C. Eugene Mason, city recreation director; Dr. L. Louis Mould, obstetrician; Earl M. Nonnenmann, operator of Sports Shoppe; Lynn Patchin, YMCA physical director; Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education; Mrs. Henrietta P. Snyder, physical education teacher at Fort Hill High School; Dr. Robert S. Zimmerman, of Allegany Community College. Rev. Arthur Bastress, former assistant at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, was a member but he has been transferred to a church at Glen Burnie in Anne Arundel County. His vacancy has not been filled.

Tawes Backs State Vehicle Inspection Plan

Predicts Eventual Slot Control Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—"We would be better off without any system" than the old Maryland inspection of motor vehicles at private garages, Gov. Tawes said Monday night.

He strongly reaffirmed his stand in favor of having the state build and operate stations for annual inspections.

Gov. Tawes thus promptly cleared up some confusion that has arisen during the week-end about his position.

His democratic floor leader, Del. W. Dale Hess, D-Harford, introduced a bill Monday for inspection at commercial garages supervised by the State Police.

The governor in his state-of-the-state message Jan. 3 specifically had endorsed inspection at state buildings operated by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

While the governor said he had not talked with Hess nor seen his bill, he made it clear it would take a lot of convincing to change his mind.

Hughes Backs Bill

"I still favor the state-operated system," Tawes said. "I remember the other inspection we had. There was everything wrong with it and we would be better off without it with it."

Maryland tried private garage inspections about a quarter of a century ago.

"All you had to do was give the man a dollar and get your sticker," Tawes recalled. "I favor a program that will really inspect and take the unsafe cars off our highways."

The state-operated system has worked satisfactorily and reduced highway fatalities in other states."

Two Baltimore County Democrats, Roy N. Staten and John Maguire, joined Hess in sponsoring the private garage bill in the house. It was offered also in the senate by two Republicans, George Hughes of Allegany and John Derr of Frederick.

Would Close Fairgo

A public hearing on the inspection of Maryland motor vehicles for defective equipment will be held Thursday in the house chamber.

Gov. Tawes also exhibited a firm position at an impromptu news conference on consolidation of Maryland's horse racing. He personally had the bills put in by the presiding officers of the house and senate and issued a statement backing them up.

The proposal would discontinue racing at Cumberland, Bel Air and Baltimore Raceway. The days would be transferred to Pimlico, Laurel, Bowie and Timonium.

He said he was not ready to state his position on the ticklish subjects of congressional redistricting and repeal of slot machines in four southern counties.

Gov. Tawes said he had not studied the report by the commission he named to advise on abolition of slots and pinball machines.

Long Study Ahead

"They didn't recommend any legislation," the governor said, "so we will have to study the issue long and hard. But we will have a bill."

On setting up an 8th congressional district, the governor said, "I have no plan whatsoever at this time."

He said he was hoping that one would be drafted that would be acceptable to the people and he would back it.

"I will bend myself over backwards to avoid a repetition of last year," he added.

The last legislature passed a bill which Gov. Tawes said was the consensus of democratic leaders and not only himself, to create the new district out of Prince Georges and Howard counties. It was petitioned to the ballot and defeated by the voters in November.

The new congressman was elected by state-wide vote, which Gov. Tawes said he opposes.

Man Injured In Car Crash

A 55-year-old Westerport man was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with injuries he received in a one-car accident near the Wiley Ford Bridge in South Cumberland.

Admitted to the hospital was Clyde Paugh, who received possible fractured ribs and a possible fractured pelvis. He was reported in "good" condition last night.

City Police Officer Robert Hershberger said Paugh was traveling north on Ford Avenue when his car struck several guard rails on the left side of the roadway and then hit a tree.

The accident occurred about 8 p.m. several hundred feet north of the Wiley Ford Bridge.

State House Identified

Gov. Tawes yesterday unveiled a marker identifying the historical significance of Maryland's state capitol for the first time since it was completed 183 years ago in Annapolis. At left are Sgt. John P. Stephens and Robert M. Garrell, of Ft. Myer, Va., members of the Third Infantry's Old Guard fife and drum corps which performed in colonial uniforms at the ceremony. Behind Gov. Tawes is Harold R. Manakee of the Maryland Historical Society. Occasion for the ceremony was the 179th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris at the State House.

Historic Md. State House Gets Identification Signs

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes unveiled Monday historical markers identifying the Maryland State House for the first time since it was completed 183 years ago.

The occasion was "Ratification Day," the 179th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris in the old senate chamber of the State House. The treaty formally ended the Revolutionary War.

Tawes stood on the east portico at the front of the historic capitol to tell the small crowd of some 200 who turned out in cold, windy weather why the markers were erected.

The case involved the petition of Local 307, IBEW, to be certified as bargaining agent for the ABL instrument technicians at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory here.

The decision was rendered by the Fifth regional office of the NLRB on January 11 and received here yesterday.

The case involved the petition of Local 307, IBEW, to be certified as bargaining agent for the ABL instrument technicians.

In dismissing the petition, the NLRB held that the 76 instrument technicians would not constitute an appropriate unit for collective bargaining under terms of the National Labor Relations act.

A hearing on the petition was held here November 19 by August A. Denhart Jr., NLRB field examiner.

The Hercules Powder Company, which operates ABL for the Navy at Rocket Center, W. Va., opposed the petition, saying the technicians are "semi-professional" employees and not craftsmen.

The International Chemical Workers Union, AFL-CIO, which represents hourly paid ABL workers, announced, after the petition was filed, that it would seek to have its name entered on the ballot if an election were held by the NLRB among the 76 workers to determine union representation.

The markers read:

"Maryland State House, built 1772-1774."

"Capitol of the United States, November 26, 1783-August 13, 1784."

"In this state house, oldest in the nation still in legislative use, General George Washington resigned his commission before the Continental Congress December 23, 1783."

"Here, January 14, 1784, Congress ratified the Treaty of Paris to end the Revolutionary War and May 7, 1784, appointed Thomas Jefferson minister plenipotentiary."

"From here, September 14, 1786, the Annapolis Convention issued the call to the states that led to the Constitutional Convention."

"A registered National Historic Landmark."

"Maryland Historical Society."

The governor was bundled in a blue overcoat, muffle and hat against the 29-degree temperature and wore a small 13-star flag in his lapel for the occasion.
